

INEFFICIENT PRICING

REFINEDFX

- Inefficiency is essentially where there has been manipulation and this has left liquidity behind within this candle.
- These are voids in price which will usually be filled fully or even halfway; once filled, price will then continue in the overall direction.
- Inefficient pricing is where there is only one type of orders in the market so there will either be only buys or sells at that point.
- We draw these using the wick to wick from the candles to both sides of the inefficiency.
- For an aggressive SL placement you can place it below/above the candle open. For a safer SL placement you can place it below/above the high/low.
- If I am entering a trade based of inefficient pricing I will place an order at the EQ of the inefficiency.
