

Important Rules

1. Don't exit a trade before +50 pips until it hit its SL level or an opposite signal is there.
2. Don't wait to get a better entry price if you are not clear about the direction (most of the cases u will try to get about 10 to 20 pips better price this is what I had done in the beginning and missed out some nice moves costing more than those small gains)
3. Make sure to enter within first half hour of a signal
4. Don't enter if daily stochastic are moving against the signal and are just leaving overbought-sold area instead use reverse trade strategy (both the lines should have visited overbought oversold area). You can again enter the trade in original direction if stochs again cross in our original signal direction the next day and price is around our signal's entry price.
5. If a signal candle is more than 150 pips (From High to Low) your entry should be at the 150 pip mark of the candle or better.
6. If there are only one same color bars on the oscillators, MA's have crossed and the signal candle is 100-150 (From High to Low) you can enter at the next candle open.
7. Breakout Signals are not considered valid instead full confirmation is required in case of using inverse trade strategies.
8. Enter the trades only in the direction of QQE i.e. the candle at which the dot appears with yellow line in the middle.

Optional Rules:

1. You can only take trades in the direction of daily Stochastics. This will improve Win% greatly but this filter is bit difficult to trade live. In case of large moves in a day Stochastics could turn inverse to that they were before so if you want to use this filter you must first practice this for months. I personally increase my lot size if a signal is in the direction of Stochastics than normal lot size.
2. Trade only in the direction of daily Awesome Accelerator.
3. I don't trade 0:00 candle signals (because its night here in Pakistan) Usually no big moves happen at that time so you can also skip that candle it will save u a lot of time. (My broker uses +2 GMT time so 0:00 stands for 22:00 GMT).
4. If you are monitoring a trade and price comes about 10 pips near your SL or TP level etc remove the limit and manually monitor it to get better price through common technical's (Technical's, Price Action etc.).
