I finished my July red but not serious red but red nevertheless however last 3 months were up significantly up. To me having red month here and there is fine as long as overall trajectory is going up. As I said here many times I trade quarters just like any normal business. July did not work out for me USD got hammered with Trump Russia and Health care issues which was unpredictable so events were out of my control and I did suck it up and carried on. Here is my graph last 3 months May June July even with red July still made significant gains.

I hoped some of you took the AC trade
It was very obvious.

closed EJ +1047 pips 🍺💰

Was aiming lower but last time rebounded up again from here hence getting out. Still happy with result

Quoting dab

{quote} well done, I'm still holding most of my EJ for move lower, took some of the table in 128 to 128.5 range last move down but have reloaded on EU instead for +ve swap. Primarily still waiting for moves lower on AU, EU and to lesser extent EJ. (I trade medium to long term).

Markets are kind of unusual lately hence why I have decided to wait for Sept for big boys to return and bring back the liquidity. USD numbers lately have been green however this has no effect on the EU. I think with largest trading liquidity pair this requires lot more volume that matter to push it down. I believe we will see 115 before Dec and real normal trading environment will resume starting from Sept
Every accomplishment starts with the decision to try

We might get push to WP on EU and great place to short this bloated overbought pair. I anticipate range environment remaining August. I am bearish on this pair until 115
