HI guys i have to say this is an Amazing result with MR DAVIT. there is a stupid question here, how to set the ind that can show all weeks' pivot? i mean the last week's pivot should not have the same result with now, it should be calculated by the week before last. so is there any setting can help me to see the history pivot that make me can practice such a good system, sry for my English. green pips to all.

read the thread or do something brilliant how about search function on this thread. That's an IDEA

Let me ask you a question if there is an indicator with history of pivots 🤔 How would that benefit you

It took me less then a minute to find your answer. Please don't use your brain cells let me do that FOR YOU!! Wow its on clipboard under voti 🙌

February (2 weeks) stats of the new account. Not as impressive as other's but it's 3,75% and I'm totally fine with it as it's stress free money. The aim is 0,5% a trading day or 10% a month. But would be happy with everything it provides as long as it's positive. {image} {image}

Hi friend

There is something off about your trades. Your average profitable trade is less than a dollar and your biggest 2.41
 Either you are trading way too small or you are cutting profits way too quickly.

{quote} That's an excellent job Davit! Keep it up! Should've stuck with your thread but you know how it works for many people.. Shiny Ball Syndrome 😞 Found your thread when it was only 50 pages or something, look at it now! I'm going to start from page 1 again and work my way through it. Best regards, Patrick 🙌

Hi Patrick

I am always in philosophy that you will find a system method that best suit you. This could be the one or not. I noticed your history of posts you were or are into scalping. That's fine if that interests you but generally my 1 batch of swing trade is worth hundreds and hundreds of scalping short trades. What's more efficient 100 5pip trades or 10x 80pip trades.

That's the question how much you value your time? Do you want to be stuck in front of PC with nervous fingers all day long or you prefer place your trades then take your dog to a walk and play tennis then come back and check your trades... Anyway I am rumbling now.. good luck whatever you do [quote = sonseeker; 10829877] {image} NU正在很好地工作.....在Davits Pivots [/ quote] MAYBE something wrong with the pivot. i get a different pivot with you. but not distance too much.

Obviously either you are an idiot or just lazy. Did you read the 1st page? Obviously not

Pivot is based on broker time start and that varies from broker to broker. My broker is NY based hence if you are in that time zone no need to change anything however if you live outside this zone you need to adjust the pivot to match mine.

In order to move the pivots you need to take these steps.

Get into indy settings. Set brokers candle to false. This is the key to being able adjust the pivots up and down

'Choose H1 start candle': 2016 06 19 05:00

'Choose H1 finish candle': 2016 06 24 05:00

(5.00 a.m. may not work on your chart so try different hours till pivots line up).

Fiddle with the hour on your 'Choose H1 start candle/finish' settings to get it to line up with my pivots. When you find the corresponding hour, set the start candle and finish candle to the exact same hour. Once adjusted save as template and use that on every pair.

Updated Pivot indi just change time zone and broker candle false should work wherever you live allow me to disagree with you a pip is a standard change of a currency price by 0.0001$ or 10 points which is 0.00010$ (5 digit brokers) and if you add the pips gained for all 5 trades you will find them exactly +301 pips and by the way that is what was shown on the screen but I forgot to capture it before closing the trades.

I have been trading mini lots for years and I made the same mistake calculating pip value based on mini account.To me its rather faulty.Sure you can feel better about the numbers but actual worth is decimal.

To me PIP is 1 standard lot $10 on normal regular account.Its something worth striving for.Sure mini accounts trading mini lots can be called pips but in reality that's just retail trading hook to entice more folks to join brokers.Saying you made 300pips is impressive when you really made is 47.93 ...The logic of this is baffling to me.

The most heavily traded currency pairs in the world involve the U.S.

dollar (USD). When the USD is listed second in a pair the pip value is fixed and doesn't change, assuming you have a USD dollar account. The fixed pip amount is:

- $10 for a standard lot which is 100,000 worth of currency.
- $1 for a mini lot which is 10,000 worth of currency.
- $0.10 for a micro lot is 1,000 worth of currency.

I was one day out of charts, what a hell happened to euro from yesterday? Some pending sell orders triggered on EA and EG , now in massive DD ., damn both should come down next week.Keep your positions small and have cut out point.This is forex anything can happen.I generally don't like pending orders for exact same reason however there are exceptions like news trading but not going to get into that now

EU by mid March should drop below 1.20 Feds seems serious about rates

Hi Guys

Some of you including myself are holding trades that are in red. Having DD is normal in trading and there is fine line getting out when clearly market proves you wrong and other times when fundamentals are not really supporting jacked up prices like EA at 1.59 that it reached. So EA as example you should relax and expect range building up again towards 157 and even below. This thread gets lot of attention when everyone makes money however you should also keep in mind real character of a trader shows up when he is not making money! but surviving and overcoming adversary. Keep that in mind. Show resilience both in mind and spirit!

Hi Guys

Don't forget to go over calendar events next week. This is important. You are trading my system then do what I do. I seriously dislike laziness. If you skip this don't expect great results because you are cutting corners. Do it! Please

EC is looking real good in terms of correction. Should be fun next week. Last time it reached this high was in 2016. Not common level reached.

I am anticipating EU to reach 120 by march 20 and should this occur I anticipate significant deflation on all Euro pairs

White House Eyes Tariff Exemptions on National Security Grounds

The U.S. may exempt countries based on national security considerations from steep tariffs on steel and aluminum imports that President Donald Trump plans to impose, White House Press Secretary Sarah Sanders said Wednesday.

"There are potential carve outs for Canada and Mexico based on national security and possibly other countries as well. That would be a case-by-case and country-by-country basis," Sanders told reporters at the White House."

Power of pivots. Right on the T

Swings end usually with a spike! This is due to large institutional traders pushing price triggering stops allowing their orders to get filled.

When you see a spike don't be scared. Unlike retail traders large institutional orders can't be filled anytime they wanted hence they create the conditions for it and one way is to hit stops.

Rookies focus on profits pros on risk

GJ one daily candle can be 250 pips plus. Can you sustain that kind of DD and if you going to place stops then how big? How often it might get hit before your trade shows profit.

Its baffling to me why new traders are attracted to beast like dragon GJ that have no clue to its consequences then blow an account..

My favorite pairs usually go into a range NU AU NC AC EA UC AN basically very focused on commodity pairs.They are easy to tract and typically go into swings and range.Perfect to build positions

I can see it is a safer approach to spread your trades over somewhat correlated pairs, but on the other hand there is more profit to be had from trying to pick the one that will 'probably' have a greater correction. Looking back at this moment from peak this week to current price the 3 I considered have...

Hi Nostro

I had pretty much same number of trades on AC NC and EC but when EC really pushed up I knew from experience this was going to be pump and dump situation then I loaded up more and did same on EA

Its a start but I am surprised no mention at all about the pink elephant in the room.

Exercise is not about you deciding buy or sell but having awareness about the events and take appropriate action and that action could be NOT trading particular currency like NZD until market shows its intentions.

Your bias (sentiment) must match with the market's. That's why PA is king. Please don't sleepwalk though this you missed key events. Why don't you take a look

Just a friendly advise. Don't trade CHF it basically moves almost same as Euro but Euro cheaper to trade.

-.75 swap CHF is costly even to hold.

When you see AUD/CHF substitute EA CAD/CHF sub EC and that goes for all CHF pairs.

You are not gonna get everything in 1 day or week. Give it few years but trust me you'll be far better trader.

I am going to share my Calendar events so you and other can see how I approach it.

Good Morning guys. Best wishes and God bless you all.

The big picture. 1st the tone of my canvas is painted with Feds March 21st interest rate decision this is not far hence usually market prices in before the event. Recent Job creation was very green hence overall US economy is good and Feds may actually raise therefore my outlook has not changed I'll be USD bull that means I won't sell USD. This is my canvas background color I am operating.

Tuesday

GBP Annual Budget Release

This document outlines the government's budget for the year, including expected spending and income levels, borrowing levels, financial objectives, and planned investments; Domestic government spending and borrowing levels can have a significant impact on the economy - increased spending generates work for contractors and creates jobs, while borrowing levels impact the nations credit rating and provide insight into the nation's underlying fiscal position;

I am looking here possible EG further drop. I am short on it.

USD CPI m/m 0.2% 0.5%

USD Core CPI m/m 0.2% 0.3%

These could print positive however should it print negative we may have a dip selling of USD until tomorrow balancing out with positive retail sales hence your dip buying USD may pay off next day!

Weds

USD Core Retail Sales m/m 0.3% 0.0%

USD PPI m/m 0.1% 0.4%

USD Retail Sales m/m 0.3% -0.3%

Retail Sales are very green and should it print even better than expect USD dominance of late may continue.

UJ in particular has lots of room to north.

Crude Oil Inventories this effects the Canadian dollar the most. Wait and see here

NZD GDP q/q a big one nice green forecast but maybe less than predicted hence expect good deal of volatility on all NZD pairs. Should it shoot up north of 7350+ Imay start sell it should PA agree and Pivot levels support. Remember big picture

Fri

USD Building Permits not a big mover I don't expect much here. Could be USD bulls profit taking right before it.

Its obvious looking at this week USD and NZD will become in focus hence you should as well! My trajectory is buy USD in dips until we get closer to March 21

As you can tell I am not pure technical trader. I am sure there are lots of them who don't give a shit on any of these and simply look at candle patters and S/R's. To me this is limiting and does not appeal to me.

Comparison I can give is you are going in the battle with good knowledge of terrain, enemy formations and fortifications and you have plan for counter attacks. You studied best of your knowledge factors that may effect the outcome hence you have good chance of winning the battle.This is my approach vs going in battle blind Ino idea of troops formations, terrain or fortifications only reacting to enemy moves but have no plan on your own.

In the long run knowledge is $$ because on each brick you are building the trader in you.

Hi Davit, thank you very much for post 15991. This is exactly what I need to learn....as you would say get the tone of the canvas correctly. I know you mentioned it takes time but so far I have not been able to determine this color. While I am not bad when it comes to technicals this is clearly something I am missing. So I really enjoyed this post. If there is any literature, learning material, webinar that you could point out, I would highly appreciate. All I am doing at the moment is using the FF calendar to - not getting surprised by a sudden...

Thank you for appreciating my efforts. My best advise is do your calendar events. Inform yourself then watch the whole week unfold. End of the week access if you were close or missed the mark by huge shot or were able to utilize your knowledge pivots and make money.

There is no magic formula trading takes time, screen time is essential. You will become real trader in 5yrs. Most people drop out before that....

Flexibility is key as well. I may have constructed entire scenarios in my head but market can totally surprise you hence you must be flexible to adapt and utilize new conditions. This is critical in combat as well. Trading is basically mimicking combat. Lot of same principles apply.

The big picture. 1st the tone of my canvas is painted with Feds March 21st interest rate decision this is not far hence usually market prices in before the event. Recent Job creation was very green hence overall US economy is good and Feds may actually raise therefore my outlook has not changed I'll be USD bull that means I wont sell USD. This is my canvas background color I am operating. Tuesday GBP Annual Budget Release This document outlines the government's budget for the year, including expected spending and income levels, borrowing levels, financial objectives, and planned investments; Domestic government spending and borrowing levels can have a significant impact on the economy - increased spending generates work for contractors and creates jobs, while borrowing levels impact the nations credit rating and provide insight into the nation's underlying fiscal position; I am looking here possible EG further drop. I am short on it. USD CPI m/m 0.2% 0.5% USD Core CPI m/m 0.2% 0.3% These could print positive however should it print negative we may have a dip selling of USD until tomorrow balancing out with positive retail sales hence your dip buying USD may pay off next day! Weds USD Core Retail Sales m/m 0.3% 0.0% USD PPI m/m 0.1% 0.4% USD Retail Sales m/m 0.3% -0.3% Retail Sales are very green and should it print even better than expect USD dominance of late may continue. UJ in particular has lots of room to north. Crude Oil Inventories this effects the Canadian dollar the most. Wait and see here NZD GDP q/q a big one nice green forecast but maybe less than predicted hence expect good deal of volatility on all NZD pairs. Should it shoot up north of 7350+ I may start sell it should PA agree and Pivot levels support. Remember big picture Fri USD Building Permits not a big mover I don't expect much here. Could be USD bulls profit taking right before it. Its obvious looking at this week USD and NZD will become in focus hence you should as well! My trajectory is buy USD in dips until we get closer to March 21 As you can tell I am not pure technical trader.I am sure there are lots of them who don't give a shit on any of these and simply look at candle patters and S/R's. To me this is limiting and does not appeal to me. Comparison I can give is you are going in the battle with good knowledge of terrain,enemy formations and fortifications and you have plan for counter attacks.You studied best of your knowledge factors that may effect the outcome hence you have good chance of winning the battle.This is my approach vs going in battle blind !no idea of troops formations, terrain or fortifications only reacting to enemy moves but have no plan on your own. In the long run knowledge is $$ because on each brick you are building the trader in you.

CAD has been the weakest currency today looking for strength in this currency maybe after Wednesday Crude Oil Inventories report, while there is an interesting battle between AUD & USD. The pair has not decided on a direction yet. My bias is on USD strength after Wednesday Retail Sales. Does anyone have an idea why Euro was super strong today? {image} what do you see on your calendar?Please look!!!

Draghi speaking in 13hrs.That's enough reason since he has been less dovish lately.

Poloz comments didn't help the CAD today but for me its all good providing new opportunities.Sentiment in forex does not last long specially on swings which last basically a week.Things change quickly.
Once CAD is sold off (already has topped off)next in line could be AUD and NZD even the Euro

This is not rude of me but I am trying to make you think independently and build the trader in you.Less you rely on others stronger you will be.

Try another system more beginner friendly. You won't be able to post here. Try to follow instruction next time and observe more and ask less questions.

Nothing worse when people disregard and disrespect this thread then ask idiotic questions. Grow up learn to comply.

As your account grows you should reduce your risk

It is easier to get 50% return on 300 account but same results can't be achieved on 30k account without risking too much and possible account blow up.

300 blow out account is not painful but 30k is.

Psychology of trading creeps up on you as your account gets bigger. This is why systemic approach is necessary.

Thank u davit i am new on ff but not on tdare. My time zone gmt +2 what you use here... Gmt-4?? No more need ... Just explane me and ather members. In 1 st page no correct time chozen.. Good luck majors

Which part of this not clear to you

Just a warning one more question like this and you will be removed.Trading is complicated activity if you can't even read plain English and do simple things chances are you will fail at this.

Pivot is based on broker time start and that varies from broker to broker.My broker is NY based hence if you are in that time zone no need to change anything however if you live outside this zone you need to adjust the pivot to match mine.10pips or less Pivot difference is acceptable and normal.Its a zone after all.

In order to move the pivots you need to take these steps.

Get into indy settings. Set brokers candle to false. This is the key to being able adjust the pivots up and down

'Choose H1 start candle': 2016 06 19 05:00

'Choose H1 finish candle': 2016 06 24 05:00

(5.00 a.m. may not work on your chart so try different hours till pivots line up).

Fiddle with the hour on your 'Choose H1 start candle/finish' settings to get it to line up with my pivots. When you find the corresponding hour, set the start candle and finish candle to the exact same hour. Once adjusted save as template and use that on every pair.

Updated Pivot indi just change time zone and broker candle false should work wherever you live

CAD got sold off hard after Trump comments 😬

Nothing else fundamentally wrong on CAD and OIL is going up.This should correct soon. Employment was positive as well.

<https://www.forexfactory.com/news.ph...5#post10875722>

Five fundamental truths:

1. Anything can happen.

2. You don't need to know what is going to happen next in order to make money.

3. There is a random distribution between wins and losses for any given set of variables that define an edge.

4. An edge is nothing more than an indication of a higher probability of one thing happening over another.

5. Every moment in the market is unique.

Hi Snail

There are factors about news events that perhaps my background as an artist helps. When an artist draws an figure or object he/she looks multiple factors at the same time most important is getting the form right the structure then shading light dark interplay, perspective, shadows, expression etc.

Sure one can trade without news events but that would be like trying to run with one leg.

Value about doing what I am doing is forming chronological event map in your mind that when market reacts same as your analyses then makes your trading decisions easier. Its about being aware the beat of the market.

This is why saying "everything is in the chart" is erroneous and dangerous mindset to have. Anyone says that just stop following that trader that's amateurish.

I've been reading your weekly plans and others as well to get a better feel on this and trying to do this for myself but not publicly. How I feel? I feel more confident having at least some kind of plan for the week. If it works out or not, I don't know but at least I know what to avoid. {image}

If it helps to avoid trades otherwise you would of fell for it and accumulated losses then that's huge plus. Main goal is to develop keen market awareness.

I thought I'll have a go on this. Best way to learn is by practicing, right? Went through next week's calendar and this is what I think. G20 Meetings on Monday and Tuesday so some news flash and certain spikes to be expected. USD Wednesday Federal Funds Rate and FOMC. Not wise to trade at least USD pairs on Wednesday. USD is expected to get stronger but I'm not sure how much of this is already priced in and it could spike in every direction. So I would wait after dust settles and make my trading decisions after. All trading decisions concerning...

Executing the plan.

EA watch still and setting up nicely since its none USD better for it. AN worth watching long very strong support level and if AUD monetary policy prints positive economy hints of rate increase this should shoot up

Note weds NZD rate day so keep that in mind. Benefit of doing your homework

So market may continue selling AN or shoot up then drop down again until Weds

Note AN is probably most rangy pair out there and I love it ❤️ worth reposing this in case you missed it focus is on USD and GBP heavy and watch PA and follow the events and see how market sentiment gears on these pairs. Market PA rules but we like to be prepared!

AUD Monetary Policy Meeting Minutes

I don't expect much change here in terms of fundamentals any hint of future hikes may propel AUD north specially AJ and AN watch these pairs

Tues

GBP-CPI y/y if prints negative all G pairs may start declining slowly or remaining same working itself to Thurs when much more important data is coming out.

I think the reason G pairs did not get sold off last week because of GBP events next week and once again market looks ahead!

Weds huge day get ready!

GBP Average Earnings Index 3m/y I believe market will hold GBP neutral until Thurs.

USD the pink elephant in the room. Feds rate and policy formulation

Question is how much of this will be priced in by Weds. Wait and see and don't be surprised even if Feds raise USD declining quickly right after.

NZD rate expectation unchanged

AUD-Unemployment Rate/Employment Change

Note here if NZD rate stays the same which is expected and AUD prints green expect AN to shoot north!!Be ready here!

Thursday

Big day for GBP

Retail Sales m/m

MPC Official Bank Rate Votes

Monetary Policy Summary

Official Bank Rate

Wait and see the sentiment on this but don't be surprised G pairs declining specially GC which is seating very high now 182+

Friday

CAD CPI m/m Core Retail Sales m/m

CPI negative and retail positive if prints as forecasted I anticipate positive for CAD and finally may start corrections on CAD pairs specially NC and AC which I am still holding. AC could drop below 100 and NC mid 92

USD Core Durable Goods Orders m/m may not be a mover.

Hi guys today I posted good trade EA and said watch PA and beautifully Price hit R61 to T (power of pivots for skeptics) then descended and I started building my shorts.
So we have beginning of a trade LIVE from watch list to execution!
There should be no confusion about this system none!

Got a PM one member from here asking when EC I am expected to decline

This is very discouraging to me. This means this individual is clueless about the essence of this thread.

Once again this system is based on probability theories which means system needs large sample size of trades to show its edge.

No different then how casino operates. Casino has about 3.5% Edge but that's enough to generate millions but the house does not know the outcome of every card game? Understood? I have no idea if EC is going to come down NONE but I know If I take trades in the zone I have about 70-80% chance of hitting winners but I don't know the result of every trade so you asking outcome of a trade is not only discourages me that you have not learned anything but seriously should not be on this thread wasting my time.

Thank you

Wall street took a beating today already on Steel aluminum tariffs.I can see more of the same to continue then creates new volatility for buyers.Its cyclical the reasons almost not important.

High guys

Trades are going as planned. Nice 💰 now we just need to watch and show patience. EA should drop to minimum 1.58 so no hurry to get out and EC still has huge room on downside. I expect lot of movement after weds.

Lot of red numbers came out on GBP and I think it killed the bull drive...

Closed EC! EA still running until the pivot line.. 💰

there was no reason to close EC...not even to WP price is between R38 and WP in basic terms one of those pivots will get hit...and since we are in correction mode WP more likely. anyway green pips

Made a little mistake yesterday on EC that reminded me to always not go over-leveraged. I Hedged 50% of my short position at the top (R38) was expecting R61 and à pullabck. Never would have happened if i wasnt over leveraged. I was smart enough not to hedge 100% so its not an absolute mess.

Every mistake is opertunity to learn.Stride along.

Hedging not allowed in US stupid rule imposed by regulators to "protect American public" or make brokers shit load of money.

Yes liberal lefties love regulations until you sign 3 thousand documents to get a loan of 10k then you realize what kind of mess we are in regulations...

All in the name of protecting the public until we are in choking convulsions.Trump may not be the best president but I feel better knowing the wall of regulations are coming down.

Since I am ranting here in US online gambling not allowed but outside US its freely allowed.Yes liberal lefties love to protect us from gambling addiction.... while meantime our government states sell lottery tickets in billions. Not gambling? lol

The nation was recently in a frenzy over a $1 billion Powerball jackpot. But are lotteries just a tax in disguise? Here's everything you need to know:

What are the chances you'll win?

Infinitesimally small. Ticket holders in the multistate Powerball lottery, for example, have a 1 in 292,201,338 chance of winning the jackpot. That's like putting into a hat the names of nearly everyone in the U.S. and hoping your name is pulled out. Yet the fantasy of getting rich quick is too tempting for many of us to resist. About half of Americans have played the lottery at least once. With a growing array of prize draws, electronic games, and scratch cards available, sales in the 43 state lotteries totaled $70 billion in 2014, or $300 per every American adult — more than was spent on video games, movie tickets, books, and sporting events combined. 🤔 But there is a huge disparity in how much people spend. Fifty-four percent of ticket sales come from 5 percent of players, who tend to be poor and uneducated. "The hope of getting out of poverty encourages people to continue to buy tickets," says Emily Haisley, an expert in financial decision making. "Buying lottery tickets exacerbates the very poverty that purchasers are hoping to escape."

Number is probability lot higher now. Our government prefers to have monopoly in gambling business all in the name of protecting the public from online gambling....😂

Waiting on CAD pairs mostly. By Friday 2pm I anticipate CAD bears closing books which generally has opposite effect.

I basically hit 9% gain already on my monthly goal of 10% so I am relax no need to rush to close profitable trades. Have 2 weeks to end of the month so I am looking to have another great month.

Hi Davit, am now on page 444 of the thread and so far I have learnt incredibly much while at the same time I am trading on demo to hone my execution skills in the key zones 61 and above. I have a question though. When I look at the pivots...do I have to consider them more as a zone i.e I need to watch price action anywhere from R61 and above to see price stalling and thus based on PA I enter or are the pivots really this precise that my entry should always be very near a pivot? The reason I am asking is this.... If I see price approaching a pivot...

please take your time say less and observe more. Lot of your questions are obvious. This is from my 1st page!and thank you for reading it....

"Pivot is based on broker time start and that varies from broker to broker. My broker is NY based hence if you are in that time zone no need to change anything however if you live outside this zone you need to adjust the pivot to match mine. 10 pips or less Pivot difference is acceptable and normal. Its a zone after all."

You need to trade real money even if its cents. You need to have a stake in this or you are not going to learn much. Trading is not just about technicals it takes lot of psychology and you are not going to get latter from demo.

Next time please post a chart and avoid asking questions. Use search function on this thread. Thanks and good luck

Not going to gloat or boast but its obvious I did my homework went over the calendar events had idea what to focus and hammered the trades.

Had I not done my homework I would not have ripped the pips I have and yet to collect. You got to be in sink with the market.

UC didn't reach R61 and if FEDs do raise rate might shoot as high as 1.33+ specially if policy hints further hikes this year.

I rather not be part of that spike but look for great opportunities after. This may not play out since nobody knows the future but I prefer to be out.

I wait GA weekly resistance ,and pivot 61-100 sell {image} {image}

there is a step you are missing that is if PA agrees but obviously that part got ignored and now you have DD

don't be a schmuck read the 1st page carefully

Since you are a busy man let me post the 1st page for your convenience!

Here is how to trade pivots.

As price travels progressively away from weekly pivot it becomes more likely to go into correction.

61 S/R key zone 78R/S is Scott Carney's last chance for reversal (spikes stops taken before reversal) 100R/S another major zone.

Should price smash 100 S/R then you are in strong trend supported by fundamentals.

Pivots can be traded both with the trend and against. I personally don't subscribe to typical bookish mentality that if previous H4 is bear then assumption should be another bear candle. This is very wrong way to look at the markets. Markets are in constant motion and within 1 H4 candle price can move opposite over 100pips against previous candle so its not about previous candles but where price is in relative to pivots. In simple terms Location is what is important.

I trade 15-30min charts however bigger works as well.

TDI is our friend. When price hit major pivots we wait for TDI to turn thus confirm the move. Sharp angles important when its almost horizontal PA is weak or consolidating thus avoid trading. PA is king always!

You really should not even be on G pairs with your skill level!

H1 Green H4 Green D green

5 15 30 sideways

TDI sharp up. Nothing on this chart says sell

I decided to remove you from here! Green journey somewhere else! "Traders" who can't even read the 1st page should not be here!

Hi everyone! Today's marking 6 month how I started to trade Davits pivots. Just wanted to share my side of it for those who recently started or struggle to understand how it's all works. First 4 months were greatest of all times me being in trading. Never seen better results. I was averaging 500 pips per trade and it was heaven for me. All until I raised the bar. January I started to loose. And really nothing changed but my behavior. What seems to be normal DD becomes problem for me and I panicked. Niece twice tree times and so on till I lost 62%...

I only increased my position size gradually and even then took me 2yrs. Even now with 50k account technically I can trade 5 full lots but I won't because that's not the right way. from my charts everyone can only at 38S ton of room south.Wait after if you want to play you can place limit buys at 100S 7550 and might get in on spike and be instant profit

Can't post screenshot as I trade off Tradingview (i've coded the weekly pivots), respecting Davits rules. Just took AUDJPY from S38 and to just under PP. Took it based off structure to left (daily chart). Three months previous I've had returns of 1.6%, 2.4%, 3.5% and March thus far is 3.98%, heading in the right direction. Not quite at the >10% month some of you are hitting but getting there! My profit chart since trading PA and pivots since last July. Keep the faith! {image}

Good results but you can perform better. 1.6% in a whole month there must be things you are doing wrong or you are trading very low mini lots.

You have to find and work at the issues what's holding you from really performing!

{quote} Thanks Davit, i've seen you post that image before and its 100% true. I definitely have a few kinks to iron out, letting winners run being my main focus. I am still not spreading as many orders as I could (you could say I have a less coarse fishing net) which could account for my lower returns but I am looking to increase that as I gain confidence. Onward and upward!

{quote} I was trying to google it, couldn't find it. Thank you for information. I like art but I know nothing about artists.

try going to your local museum. You'll be surprised what might inspire you. Trading to me is balancing out lot of factors for one clear picture very much same in painting. You don't have to be an artist to see this. When one muscle in your body hurts like lower back groin for example effects entire group of muscles and you walk crooked (personal painful experience) and buddy needs to balance to function.

Trading to me is about balancing of technicals with fundamentals with clear Edge defined and sentiment of the market .When its just technical or just fundamentals trading is out of balance.

Hence you see great work of ART you may not know why is great but its there in your brain unconsciously registering.

Very few in the west know about Russian Art but I love it and very familiar with Russian Artists.

This is called Ivan the Terrible and His Son Ivan on November 16, 1581 by Repin

The horror of recognizing what he did and overall the painting is worth a movie and a book. So much captured that transcends human condition

Never ever try to trade the FOMC or NFP until next session opens. Got really burnt yesterday, 40% of my account, during rate announcement trying to catch the swings. Heavy DD but managed to keep it going as it was in the zone. Made it all again today..lesson: There's always an opportunity at the next corner. 🙄🙄. Disappointed with myself..

Can you share what pairs you traded? I clearly mentioned not to trade USD pairs I even exited UC previous night myself.

Why you buying the EC? To me buying at 61S makes lot more sense if PA agrees but right now its kind of bla situation and bears still control it.

Guys I am just surprised how simple rules are distorted and not fallowed then people post like "I lost 40% of my account" that's just makes me upset.

Its clear on 1st page high probability zone. 38S does not qualify unless its ranging but that's not the situation now

You could of added more on AN clearly was going up. Lots invested on EC should of been on AN Maximize build positions on higher probability trades.

I had 30positions on AC and you know why? Because it was high probability trade and made great deal of money on that 1badge alone but I did not have 30 trades on 30 pairs.

Sorry if I sound harsh but I am trying to direct you in right direction.

your yellow box should not include 38 its between 61-100 the zone which is on 1st page.

Trade might work out today...but that's not the problem problem is its wrong way to trade and if repeated you can accumulate losses unnecessarily.

Both made weekly highs so the Edge was on my side on downside and have been tracking Canadian economy and oil for years more familiar with CAD. I have traded CAD more then any other currency and its almost intuitive. Why I always bought CAD against NZD and AUD that's always been my preference for years.

another badge! This is classic example of maximizing from a trade. Get out wait for bounce get in. Not easy to do but doable and I do it often. In fact I did it in just about every trade I took this week. Hammering those bounces until swing is exhausted.

If you have sharp observation you can see the value in this post....

This might be a silly question but, are you a Patriots and Red Sox fan?

not really a sports guy after quitting sports gambling.I used to gamble heavy on baseball and it was lots of fun and profitable until I got a warning from my government to quit online gambling or face charges.Maybe it was for the best.Spend too much time watching sports every pitch every hit.

Now in Forex I place my trades and live my life and make more money and have control about the outcome which is the difference from trading and gambling.

Not really part of NE sports nation thing which is on levels I have not seen anywhere.People have red Sox Patriots flags everywhere here...

I do like watching playoff games.

Hi guys thanks for your support and lets have very green end of the month week!

1st tone of the canvas market sentiment.

Trump tariff threat on China rocked the markets last week.Judging his administration comprise after threat of tariffs exemptions were made on Mexico, Canada, EU Argentina, Australia, Brazil and South Korea its very likely Trump will tone down the rhetoric and instead of 25% duty tax on Chinese goods scale down to modest level. We are going into relatively uneventful week and in my view overbought GBP, Euro and the Yen are poised for corrections. As noted market scared on proposed tariffs on China send money flowing into "save heavens" mainly GBP, Euro and Yen however I personally think this is temporary and corrections very likely here. EC EA GC GA prime candidates however Yen could play major correction as well specially on AJ CJ UJ.

Tues

CB Consumer Confidence very green here might lift the USD specially against UJ which is in free fall. Probably scaring the crap of Japanese economists who need weaker Yen for inflation and to be competitive in export heavy Japanese economy. Any good news on Chinese tariffs might shoot UJ up.

ANZ Business Confidence

Red numbers will boost AN up and in my view this pair is oversold.

Weds

USD Final GDP q/q forecast is slight positive and if prints green I look for UJ no bounce higher. Overall might work into Euro and GU corrections

Thurs

GBP Current Account-Red numbers again will help infuse new blood selling off GBP

uneventful which to me means profit taking closing books so what may have started on Weds Thurs may continue on Friday.

Note in my experience before a major holiday markets can push one currency or two really hard be mindful.Easter weekend.

Trade smart and safe! Make 💰👍

Hello Davit, First off thank you for such a simple,logical, and intuitive way to trade. Your system as you mentioned on your first post lines up with my harmonic indicator that I use also. I'd like to point out an interesting fact that others may or may not already be aware of: whenever I have randomly typed in a page number on this forum and found a chart, I went back to MT4 and loaded the charts and replicated the pivots (I can't do anything about the Angleator), Loaded harmonics, Looked at the 61.8 level that I target of most of the corrective...

Hi Theone

Lets start with how much you are comfortable risking because that defines everything

Super conservative 1-2% 10k is 100-200 dollars which equals .10- .20 mini account a pip lets go with .2 as example

5 positions on a pair is 1 dollar a pip and 100 pip move nets you 100 dollars.Granted you don't have other pairs trading you made 1% you do this 4-5 times successfully a month will net you 4-5% gain of account which is respectful

Personally I traded .5 lots since 5k account and never looked back but don't go by my example I risk more because to some extend I know more and I want greater gain a month. 5% gain a month is not doing it for me.I need to hit 10%+

Anyway start small and see how you do and most important that you feel comfortable walking away from computer and living your life. What you don't want is getting stressed and staring price all day long because you have over traded.

Anyway position size is depends on experience and risk appetite but industry standard is 2% risk generally most common.

You joined FF last year and my system requires minimum 2yr experience in forex. Honestly if you are a total noob you should not be here wasting my time and others
cheers and good luck

Good Morning guys

Just a reminder do your calendar events on your own and focus whatever you think its important.

This weekly habit will pay you $$$ longer term and finally graduate you from typical retail loser trader to winner professional. You must think like a professional and act like professional.

Do your homework and if you skip it by laziness I can assure you have big probability to fail in forex which roughly 95% do.

You want to be in that 5% then put more effort be step ahead from the herd. Learn to be in sink with the market. This comes from knowing the market!

Did well on these pairs, and unfortunately AudNzd was a 150 pip loss for me,, as not often on Computer while travelling_ Taking a break from Over-Trading has been really beneficial and especially staying away from Fantasy Auto-Robots and (X29)Multi pairs wrongly thinking that the more pairs traded and the more chances to win_ Slowly realizing that currency trading is all about educating ourselves, having a plan, following it, discard all that is rubbish which don't work_ and of course having a great respect for a Top Man of this forum -Davit- 🙏🌈 ...

Hi Jenbols

There is a difference when you take loss and when you don't. AN has been ranging for months.I have DD on it myself but don't even think about it.

You must know the pairs well.This is the hardest aspect of trading which comes down to experience.When to fold and when not.

regards and you are doing excellent job 👍

If anyone needs a quick pip value calculator in MT4 to work out their lot sizes, here's one I put together a few years ago. Will calculate the pip value in your MT4 deposit currency. Hopefully will help anyone that is struggling with breaking up their lot sizes to follow Davit's lot sizing rules.

fibonacci mysteriously work just about any trading instrument in my view fibonacci pivots work best.

{quote} Ray just my 2 cents here. (I, myself was not involved in this trade because I'm in other trade from last 2 weeks.) Q: What do all the world champions have in common? A: 1. Thank you for great post which obviously took lot of your time. I am not sure if these individuals deserve that kind of feedback. I like to see effort 1st. I noticed people who get things easily don't appreciate it! Don't understand the significance because they have not applied themselves but others have done the work for them.

To give an example in art class figure drawing you draw 1st and when finished everyone puts their drawing up and teacher gives his/her feedback but you can't do it without drawing...and you can't disrupt the class with endless questions without even drawing anything...

Interesting how this is so contrarian. <https://fxssi.com/> {image}

Its meaningless. In fact study shows retail traders by large get the direction right where they fail is on position size and leverage.

If you use that as signal and take opposite on every retail majority position you will lose.

R/R has something to do with it as well. Your winners must be larger than losers. Most retail traders let losers run and cut winners short. This aspect takes time psychologically I'll say 5yrs minimum.

{quote} Hi Davit, Thanks for your input - SSI is useless then. 😊 "In fact study shows retail traders by large get the direction right where they fail is on position size and leverage." Could you please refer me to that study? Thanks if you use that as signal you will lose. Think about it. It can't be that simple right? Just go to Oanda retail positions table and take every trade opposite. This is a myth. Trading is lot harder.

one of many

https://www.dailyfx.com/forex/educat...ders_Make.html

From below chart retail traders by large had the right direction but their R/R was poor. Why is their R/R poor because positions were too big over leveraged and they were shitting in their pants and could not wait to get out at 1st sign of profit. This is trading psychology which demo trading does not teach! You need real money to learn psychology of trading.

Hi 1pipperhour

You got to step back and examine what you were and are doing wrong.Its a learning process and also I count my success quarterly. You win 2 out of 3 months and show profit for the quarter then you are doing good.

Instead of changing systems change yourself.Most mistakes are not system related.

This is from Davit Philosophy from clipboard.

The Importance of Mistakes

All automatic guidance systems reach their goals by constantly correcting mistakes. A guided missile on its way to its target has sensors that detect when it's off course. The guidance mechanism then makes the necessary adjustment and proceeds. This is done thousands of times on its journey. The guided missile relies on this negative feedback to guide it to its destination.

Without this negative feedback, a guided missile would actually not know where it was going and would never reach its target. The same is true for the human servo-mechanism. It is unfortunate that so many of us interpret mistakes as a failure and suffer feelings of frustration and discouragement when actually the mistakes we make are exactly the information that our servo-mechanism needs to make the necessary corrections to take us to our goals. Your servo-mechanism has no opinion one way or the other about mistakes. It simply uses the information to guide it to its objective. What we call "mistakes" are actually valuable lessons for success.

An important part of Psycho-Cybernetics is learning to use mistakes creatively and to remove the negative feelings that mistakes cause.
Self-Image

The destination or goal of a guided missile is a set of coordinates programmed into its computer. The goals that program our creative servo-mechanism are mental images, mental pictures, voices and feelings which we create by the use of imagination. The most basic and important mental image that we use to program our servo-mechanism is our self-image. Our self-image is our mental blueprint or mental picture of ourselves. We don't usually pay attention to it consciously, but it is there outside of our conscious awareness in great detail.

This self-image is our concept of "the kind of person I am." It is constructed of our beliefs about ourselves, beliefs that have been unconsciously formed from our past experiences, our triumphs and failures, our successes and disappointments, and also by our observations of the way other people reacted to us, especially early in childhood. From all this raw information we construct a "self," "who we are," our self-image. Once an idea or a belief about ourselves becomes part of this self-image, we accept it as being true. We don't think to question it so we act as if it were true. Our self-image determines our thinking, our feelings, our actions, even what we think our abilities are. It controls the amount of success, excitement, joy, and satisfaction we have. The kind of life we have, even the kind of world we appear to live in, are determined by our self-image.

Self-image explains why positive thinking is so undependable. It explains why willpower is so ineffective and difficult to maintain. Because all the willpower and positive thinking in the world cannot produce change and success if they don't match our self-image. Our self-image is constantly programming our creative mechanism. If your self-image is that you are a failure, your servo-mechanism will find a way to deliver that result to you. If your self-image is that you are a victim of circumstance, that will be reflected in your life. If, on the other hand, your self-image is that you are capable and successful, your creative mechanism will produce those results. The science of Psycho-Cybernetics teaches you to change and to create a self-image that is strong, caring, productive and capable. A self-image that is realistic and reasonable, and expresses your best self, your true self.

Imagination – The Tool of Change

You built your current self-image from the vivid and detailed mental pictures and feelings you've experienced in connection with the events of your life, especially in childhood. And you'll use the same powerful tool, your creative imagination, to construct the kind of self-image that expresses the best of you. You will use your imagination to create images and feelings of success, satisfaction, accomplishment and strength, and with these new positive images you will re-program your servo-mechanism so that it begins to produce results in accordance with your new self-image. You'll learn to use your imagination in a relaxed, playful way, never straining, never trying too hard.

This process will take time – you didn't construct your current self-image overnight. But soon the new programming will begin to take. You will feel yourself beginning to think, to feel, and to act in accordance with your new successful image of yourself. Eventually, this new self-image will become second nature, completely natural and spontaneous, and it will bring you success, satisfaction, enhanced relationships and happiness quite automatically for the rest of your life.

Once you grasp Mark Douglas teachings and truly understand probability theory and combine with this system and apply yourself then you'll see real results.

Its important to understand trajectory of success is not based on 1 month.It is important to correct your guided missile coordinates so you are hitting target more often.This may sound all fluff but I assure you its not.I am living example of what I am sharing!

{quote} Thanks Davit, this is awesome! Hits right in the center of my life.

read the forgive chapter as well here it is! Its important you let this sink deep.

Chapter 24
FORGIVENESS

One of the biggest problems I see with traders is that they refuse to forgive themselves for trading mistakes. This causes a much bigger problem than most people realize. You see, when you make a trading mistake, you need to forgive yourself for making that mistake.

But the thing is many people do not forgive themselves for their mistakes. In fact, they do quite the opposite. They beat themselves up and continually picture what they did wrong in vivid detail. This is the very worst thing you can do after making a mistake, trading or otherwise.

Forgiveness is a key concept in Psycho-Cybernetics. As we've just learned about how our subconscious works, we know that if we continually picture in vivid detail something, it causes that picture to come true for us. Or it at least makes it much more likely for it to come true. So it only makes sense that if we make a mistake, we must forget that mistake and forgive ourselves completely. If, on the other hand, we don't forgive ourselves and relive the mistake in our minds again and again, what do you think is going to happen?

It's obvious that we will repeat the mistake. This happens because our subconscious does not care whether we give it good or bad information, it simply sees the clear pictures we give it and tries to act it out in our lives. Obviously, it can only act this picture out if it's within our capabilities. And I think we all know that making trading mistakes is quite within our capabilities.

This is the reason it is so important to forgive ourselves when we make a mistake or an error. If we don't, we are likely to relive the mistake in our minds and then most likely project it onto our trading. This will cause big problems.

If you think back, I'm sure can you think of times where you made mistakes and beat yourself up for it. Not forgiving yourself, no matter what the mistake, will bring out the worst emotions. Remorse, regret, self-doubt, and guilt all come with not forgiving ourselves for a past mistake.

You've heard it all before. I'm sure you've been told to forget a past losing trade and move on to the next one. Emotions are used correctly and appropriately when it applies to something in the present time. Since we cannot live in the past, we can't appropriately react emotionally to the past.

As Dr. Maltz says, "The past can be simply written off, closed, forgotten, insofar as our emotional reactions are concerned. We do not need to take an emotional position one way or the other regarding detours that might have taken us off course in the past. The important thing is our present direction and our present goal. We need to recognize our own errors as mistakes.

Otherwise, we could not correct our course and steering or guidance would be impossible. But it is futile and fatal to hate or condemn ourselves for our mistakes."

One of the biggest reasons people get into losing streaks while trading is because they confuse their losing trades with themselves. In other words, we conclude that because we had a losing trade or a series of losing trades, we are a losing trader.

But the important thing to remember here is we are not our losing trades. Losing trades are part of trading. There isn't a single trader in the world who doesn't have losing trades. The only way to avoid them is not to trade in the first place. You cannot be a successful trader until you take mistakes and losing trades for what they really are. They are simply by-products in the trading game and need to be used to gain learning and understanding. But in no way do they define us as a person.

But that is where the big problem comes in. Many people let their losing trades and mistakes define them. If they're having trouble and have had a series of losing trades, they start to think of themselves as a loser. They continually think of themselves in that way. As we know from before, this kind of thinking will just bring on more of the same.

Forgiving yourself completely is the only way to avoid this trouble. You are not your mistakes and losing trades. You must put the past behind you and go forward. Holding a grudge against yourself only hurts yourself. Forgive yourself, it's the only way to be successful.

I love riding motorcycles and have been 30yrs and one thing you never want to do is target fixation. Looking at directly at an object you trying to avoid hitting.

If you do this you will almost 100% hit it. Trick is to look at the exit not the object. Where you look your body follows. In racing you look not directly in front specially on the turn but ahead where turn ends and your body posture follows. You see the relationship with trading? Target fixation and fixation on mistakes is bad. Look at the image below!

As you guys know I love range and when I trade range I always trade towards BO direction.

I also focus on pair or two and hummer trades capitalizing the swings. GC good example about 40trades last 2days on it.Over $1k gain on G pairs alone mostly GU 30% and GC 70%

Basically I had GBP in tight focus.

Once again its not about being all over the board.That's not efficient.

Focus on swings! on few pairs and maximize the gains

Hi Akkus45

1st you must understand concept of probability and watch Mark Douglas videos.

There is great deal of randomness in the market so I focus on my edge over series of trades.I don't know when I place a trade if its winner or looser.No idea but I know based on my system I can hit 80% winners. So you must figure how can one trade not knowing the outcome....exactly what probabilities are.

In my evolution as trader I came to shed lot of typical trading technicals that lot of traders are using.

1. Moving averages! Don't use them
2. Trend lines-don't use them
3. Overbought/ Oversold Oscillators-don't use them
4. Volume-Don't use it in fact hate it most

It freed me to see Price and within Pivot context. Pivot discovery hit me like a electric shock and never recovered since then still find them amazing.

Everyone has his/her development process mind sort of typical MA,Bollinger Bands,RSI then dropped all these and never looked back Not saying my system is best or better but its best for me!

Started present system in 2015 this thread came year after.

Here is a typical chart from 2012 you can tell how much I have progressed since then...

below typical rookie chart and yes at the time I played with volume and later dumped it.

Was using multiple entries going back to 2012 so this has remained with me..

2014 BB system which later I dumped to pivots present system

I don't know how USD will perform next month and I don't know the future.I am serious and people who claim to know the future are full of shit.What I know over series of trades I can hit 80% winners on my system.

This is a paradigm shift when you are confident you can make money without knowing the future.Its truly worth pondering!

You might think I just post below to make myself smart.Not the case I passionately and truly believe in Mark Douglas truths and his philosophy.

To me honest trading is understanding probability and randomness.Its accepting the fact you don't know the future until that moment comes you may struggle....maybe years

Five fundamental truths:

1. Anything can happen.

2. You don't need to know what is going to happen next in order to make money.

3. There is a random distribution between wins and losses for any given set of variables that define an edge.

4. An edge is nothing more than an indication of a higher probability of one thing happening over another.

5. Every moment in the market is unique.

– Mark Douglas

If you are worried UC trades there is great chance price hitting 29 or 2880 again by tomorrow.I personally would not worry.

Bigger trend is UP weekly and monthly....

Price jumps up because of NEWS! Its not awkward its expected!

Do you pay attention or you just type without thinking.Price can do anything anytime! That's random nature of the market!

and it was not dogmatism! Just wasted 10 minutes from my life!

Its frustrating to convey an alternative view that is rooted in truth!The reason is every simplton thinks he knows more then the other creates a snow ball effect.

I tried here to create professional environment but its not easy!!Still get lot of idiots with their baggage.

Biggest thing one can admit in trading is "I don't know the future" trust me that's a fantastic paradigm shift great starting point until then struggle will continue.

This is not to be confused trading uniformed blindly.Its understanding probability and randomness of the market.Healthy appreciation and then we attack the probabilities! This is different way of looking at price.Much more realistic.

Hi Davit, Great 2018 you have had! Keep it up, I'm waiting for you to hit that 100k mark. 1 question if I may. When you say, "I don't know the future"... I assume you mean the future for a particular trade/currency pair. (You don't need to know what is going to happen next in order to make money) However, we do know that there is an edge (80% for example), and because of this we expect ~80% of the next x number of trades to be winners. It is because of this edge (including the fundamentals aspect) that we see for example... "AN could hit 700s by...

you obviously have not read this thread or even 1st page. This has been answered over and over. Before I remove you from here let me hold your hand and do what you should of done!

There is no such a thing as TDI overbought or oversold. These concepts typical here at FF don't apply here.

TDI is not for this here.

You are trading EU USD/CHF is same as EU they move in unison almost to a pip but you pay more swap because of -.75 rate on CHF and more margin

Substitute Euro for CHF on all situations in fact hide CHF pairs from pair selection table regards

Hi guys

Lots of new faces having "great" successes!

If you go back to my thread there are lots of guys that said same to me 6 months, year ago, year and half!

Saying how much I changed them etc etc. Fact is there are not here anymore and the fact is very little chance you will be either.

That's the nature in trading when you don't shell out 5k trading system and you get it free here you don't appreciate it and you don't take it seriously. To me it does not matter I am making my money!! What matters I question time I am spending here... Time not spend with wife my kids etc

My PM is full of guys claiming they made shitload of money on my system but not here anymore.... Well easy come easy go. Life goes on.

Enjoy your holiday weekend

Trade from yesterday in the "38 zone" . After a mini gartley at pivot level and rejection candles, went short. Original TP was missed during night and when checked charts at around 6 am China time, saw price stalled, did not see much hope to go lower after ABCD ended there and the fact that is Bank holiday day, closed the trade.

Hi Guys

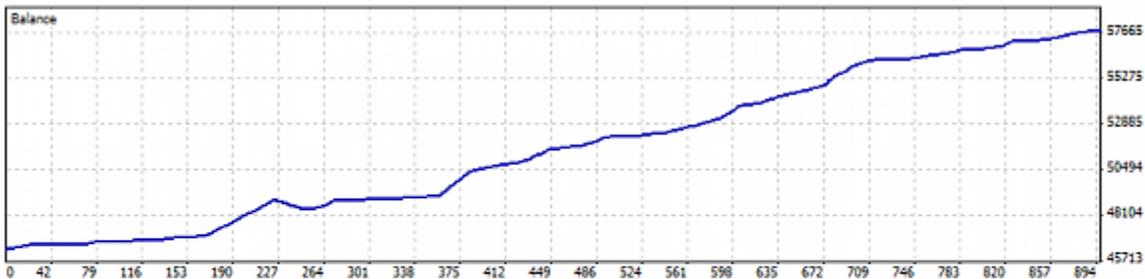

After carefully thinking I decided to limit my participation on this thread.I need my time.I will still drop by time to time to clean up the thread from offenders but won't be posting daily. I have laid out clear rules to succeed and provided great resources to learn (look at clipboard)Nothing is achieved without effort and those who put their time and apply the principles laid out here will succeed and others will fail and move on. Be positive and work on yourself.Market is neutral its what you bring to it that matters.Good luck!

UJ +256 - Most I ever made with one pair riding on the JPY train !

In retrospect, Tariffs on China and the Russian issues, may have JPY dump the USD? But, love that R78 Pivot ! However, who ever really knows the MM geopolitics?

In any case, I have to watch what Dr. John warned about Forex Trading many years ago when he sang " I been in the Right Place, but it must of been the Wrong Time":

Yes, Davit's Pivot LOCATION and Dr. John's on Right Time on key, beside fundamentals with a CLEAR mind to catch Forex sinusoidal Waves ! Then the Beers with the voluptuous gorgeous German waitresses who one would love to mix genes together all night long!

Happy Easter and Passover !
