I hope Davit pops out in some point a million on his account.

Ditto 1pipperhour ... I have been trying to contact Davit with no avail. Hopefully, he and his loved-ones are okay. I do have his real name, address, FB account, and the FB accounts of his wife and two adult sons - which I cannot share for obvious reasons. So, I have been hard at work this weekend trying to see if he is fine.

In any case, here is the my Summary PDF of Davit's Pivot Trading FF Thread for last month. In reality, it really has become Our FF thread with all the excellent Posts and teaching here by Swede and the other new Davit Pivot Forex Traders:

Hello Pivoters,

GU +37.3 Pips from a short from 8/21/19 and a second one from yesterday after the negative Manufacturing PMI. Now, there there is a swing off Fib S78-100 area, so I am building some longs:

Attached Image \(click to enlarge\)

Attached Image \(click to enlarge\)

Attached Image \(click to enlarge\)

Thu Aug 22	3:15am	EUR		French Flash Services PMI		53.3	52.5	52.6
	3:30am	EUR		German Flash Manufacturing PMI		43.6	43.1	43.2
		EUR		German Flash Services PMI		54.4	54.1	54.5
	6:45pm	NZD		Retail Sales q/q			0.1%	0.7%

Of course, GU may fall more with the No-Deal Brexit approaching on October 31.

Regards,

- John

Boris , Boris, Boris....if you pull through your current situation Cable may be the best investment in history...anyway there may be still some downside but the location seems prudent for a long in the short term....building at this point small positions according to the rules of this thread...

Euro looks like a great place to start building...cant help but acknowledge Cryptosurf market structure he has brought to our attentions many times..Notice the S138 late week mark down and then the failure this week at S38.....anyway even if it looks great, caution needs as the Banks are on Holiday both in Canada and US...when they return anything can happen as we all have seen many times.

Yes, EUR inherently weak, affected more than other currencies by possible no deal Brexit over other bad situations as Italy politics. 😊
GU below 1.20 and close to its all time lows.

As per yours low hanging fruit setups currently I see only NU and AN, both testing R/S38, but with AUD GDP on Wed and above all NFP on Fri I don't feel confodent to take any position.

I managed to take this on AUD strength in the hope of good developments in US/China trade talks. 😊

In hindsight it could run more, probably to WR61, tomorrow AUD GDP, forecast is green but trail kicked in and profit banked- no problems all good.

UC Butterfly on H4 keep in mind NFP week and BOC interest rate announcement. Not projected to cut however if Poloz surprises us and cuts CAD could dump as these Central Bankers seem bent on a race to the bottom. Amazing Race Central Bankers Edition. More like a sprint rather than a marathon as they only have anywhere from 1.75 to 0 to go! Then what?

I had a high interest bank account in the mid 80's it paid 10% interest providing you kept the balance above 10 k I always ensured it was above 10K no matter what. Now they offer you a HIGH Interest savings account with a special offer 2.5% for six months then down to 1.25% lol Lets face it these fools don't have many rabbits left to pull out of their hats.

Some trades closed by trailing stop. 😊

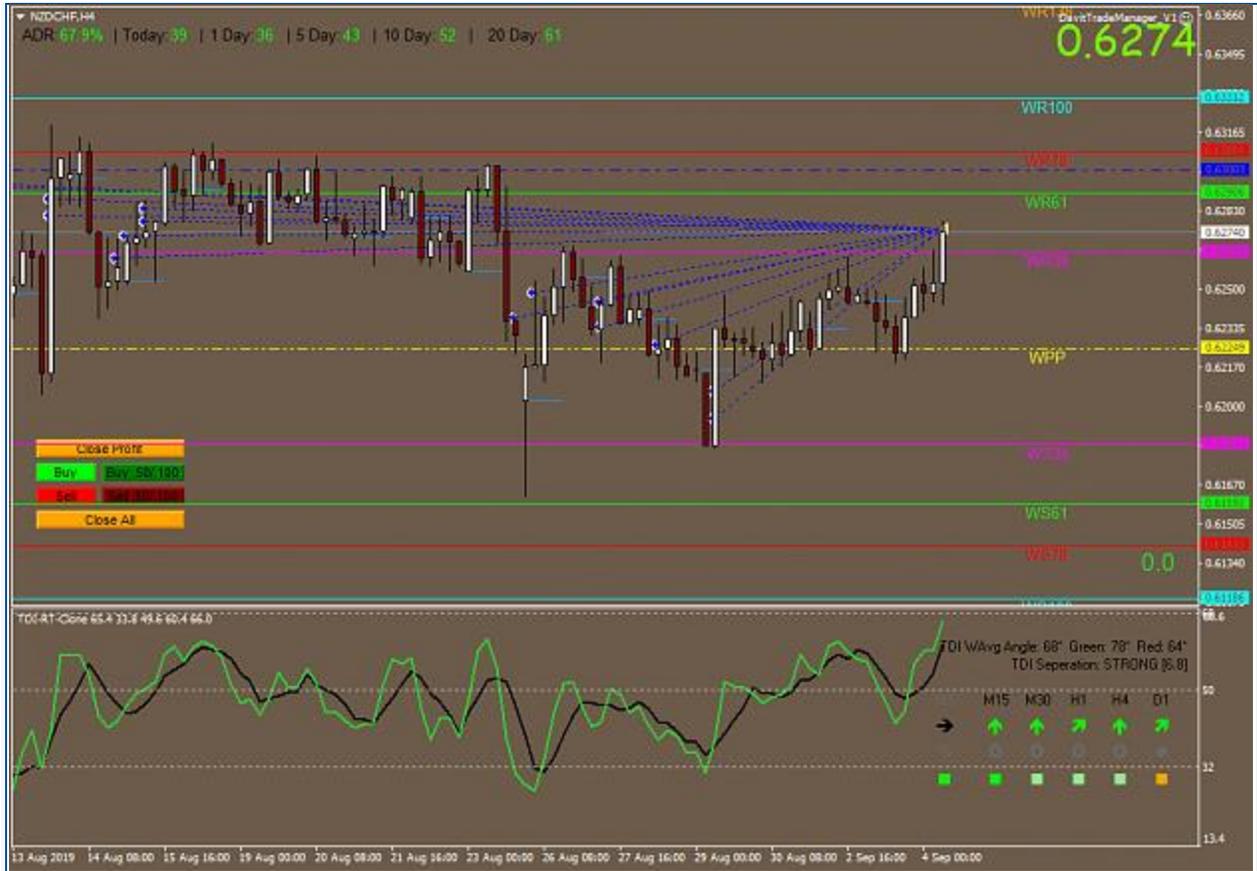

Maybe there's a lot left on the table, nevertheless in this high volatile" tweet driven" market it's OK.

As another option I'm considering to switch off trailing and set TP a bit below/above next Fib level.

Quoting Swede

Had a bit of a nasty loss last night (see chart) so had to get my act together this morning. Cable once again acted very erratic in reaction to the Political and Uncertainty in Britain.....but it can only go so far before stalling and I expect a larger pull back in the days going forward....but for now the stall came at R78, the ADR was in red, Red news in favor of USD, Euro stalling and above all Price Action was very clear...couldn't help but load the guns and risk more than I would normally be comfortable with....have closed everything atm to...

Hi Swede,

I think GBP is a pure time bomb until Brexit things are settled.

Despite some enticing good setups I avoid it because here more than ever anything can change in a blink of an eye.

It can be a good pick for some quick scalping, but holding positions it's really too dangerous.

I agree with you totally....thus I'm back to cash. However, I love time bombs as long as I can be at my station to trade the occilations, thus I use OANDA....no requotes, no delays when you hit the button. Many traders opt for low low spread with offshore brokers but very often pay the price when they need to get out of a position, in profit or in loss. With OANDA in or out it's filled in a millisecond.

I agree.....I deleted my last post on scalping the Pound/Dollar because it was scalping and that is not what this thread is about, even through it had all the elements in place.....especially to new traders starting this method I dont want them to think they can scalp their way out of a bad position. So,I want to keep it clean for Davit's return and hope that is soon....

I know many of you are staying away from Cable...but I have to say over the long run it really reacts at pivot levels....I wont post the profits but it has been a real money maker the last 48 hours since it rallied up into the R78-R100 zone....every time it tries to break it fails and new shorts taken. And nearly every short paid 30+ pips. An hour ago once again the R78 tested (see 5 min chart) and showed instant weakness....then fell to the next pivot level R61 in just 20 minutes. Call it scalping if you like, it is still pivot trading and making $$$.

Thing is this is trading at your terminal, not swinging for the next few days because news, another political Brexit move and whatever can change the trading page tremendously....so yes it is volatile, but it is also a mover.....ending the week big green...lol

Hello fellow Pivot traders!

Glad to be back here... I decided to stay quiet and trade on my own so I don't get affected by others. But I am going back here in FF so I can continue to share my trading insights and knowledge to give back to the community... Some people told me it's better to be private on your trading so your trading decisions will not suffer and be affected of wanting to be right in the eyes of other people.. Well, they're right... But for me I believe it's still great to share so we can continue to inspire new traders that it is possible to be profitable and consistent in this market. Just with the right mindset, risk management and strategy with an edge, we can all become consistently profitable in the long run...

So, to start with:

Here's our eight (8) trading opportunities using Crypto's Low Hanging Fruit Strategy: My approach on this is to place SL above/below 61 zone and to target PP or maybe 38 zone will be max(but the SL should be set to BE already)

Short AU & AJ

You're right. Shouldn't be afraid of it. No deal should be priced in already so if you trade small you'll be fine.

{quote} yup, saw that also Oswell.....it fits the Cryptosurf method without a doubt....but im taking the cautious approach because of what I see on the daily and weekly charts....if it breaks north there is nothing to stop it until R61...or if it is really moving all the way up to 1.2085 area....this is why I always have my daily and weekly charts on the side because after looking at 30 or more charts and flipping back and forth I could easily enter a trade just on one criteria only to be stopped out because of an early entry.....BUT THAT IS JUST...

Thank you but I am just an old Swedish tractor salesman who takes direction from the brilliant people in this room. I like having charts that make sense and if that can help aspiring traders to some degree so be it. I am in a great position in my life because I have no need to prove anything to the haters nor the half empty's of this world, nor do I have the be right all the time. Trading is something I really enjoy but certainly not for accolades, just simple accomplishment, or the satisfaction that I can go anywhere in the world where there is an internet connection and make an income if needed...now I call that satisfaction... 🙏

{quote} Thank you but I am just an old Swedish tractor salesman who takes direction from the brilliant people in this room. I like having charts that make sense and if that can help aspiring traders to some degree so be it. I am in a great position in my life because I have no need to prove anything to the haters nor the half empty's of this world, nor do I have the be right all the time. Trading is something I really enjoy but certainly not for accolades, just simple accomplishment, or the satisfaction that I can go anywhere in the world where...

Hey Swede,

I appreciate your humble nature...and I may add, as the late Mark Douglas noted on his Psychology of Trading series, besides "The Edge" in your trading, it is best to keep your day job as well so that fear of trading does not affect your strategy and that you get your sleep - key !

Really appreciate your opinion Sir 🙏 Thank you .

Follow up....so Oswell as you can see it did break north and where did it stop?? Yup, right at R61....and reversed....so to those who waited or placed some beginning sell stops at R61 have some very nice profit this morning...(I didnt take it because I was fast asleep...darn) Now if you read carefully, Cryptosurf method also says if R38 is missed probably R61 is where the shorts should be instigated...makes sense now right?

Hi Friends,

Despite good Crude Red News, the WTI Crude is dropping price and the expected CAD losing value with UC which relationship should have been opposite! I am guess that both have hit resistances with the former at R61 and latter at R61- R38 Pivot locations are key with Oil taken precedence over UC and MM control as usual:

Wed Sep 11	5:00am	CNY	New Loans	1210B	1200B	1060B
	10:30am	USD	Crude Oil Inventories	-6.9M	-2.7M	-4.8M

Could it be that China CNY positive Red News Loans positive sentiment for their overall economy ? The latest China starting to invest in Soy beans once again due to the coming Sino-American meeting scheduled for next month with anticipated positive outlook? Look at recent US Commodity Index DXY that is consistent reflected that China beginning to buy from US Farmers:

Can those with more Fundamental understandings help explain this for me? Again, I just think it is a PVT Location R/S issue and MM control over news despite being positive for US Oil Inventories?

Regards,
-John

Yes the general area looking for swing failures after a late week markup is the 38-61 area. If it goes beyond that then I'll generally take a pass on it.

EJ printed a thrust candle on the 4H and so far painting a pinbar on the daily. It's currently pausing at the prior day open.

Swede,

Noted with thanks , I've started to combine Crypto and Swede method now 👍👍👀 the key level looks clear on Daily TF probably should put a few sell limit order on the key level , and start to build more position if its going to the right direction .

Just bear in mind that you may also be in a counter trend position from the larger TF direction. If that's the case then set profit targets as momentum could turn back.

Please...this is not my method...this is Davit's method...Pivot Trading....and Cryptosurf who brought to our attention Market Structure with weekly pivots to refine entries...he posted scenarios many times in the past but like anything, unless one pays attention application lacks. With this method, small entries at key areas, adding when price action dictates, one can almost eliminate large drawdowns.....this is not day trading but rather larger swings...from 1 day to 2 weeks for the ultimate payoff.

keep smiling... 😊

Hi John It all correlates until it doesn't! I used to trade a lot of oil years ago and NG they used to be fairly predictable, and have fairly consistent reactions to releases. Nowadays I don't find that as much.The news comes out positive and the trader thinks this is the way it should go and the BIG money pulls the rug out from under your feet. In analysis today if you take a chart of USD and OIL and use standard pivots you will see on OIL it is dropping off of WR1 and MR1 what is occurring here is a reversals off of Monthly pivots. The USD also just went from MR1 to just below MS1 in the last few days and has swung back up. Always good to take a step back and look at the daily charts and mark your important zones and see where they line up with the weekly FIB levels that Davits Pivots provide.

A wrong setting on my trade manager caused the early close of my UC long trade. 😊

Setup was taken following Cryptosurf low hanging fruit, however I made a good profit.

Not much on the horizon to move NZD but looking at the weekly and daily there is lots of room south...guess we will see....the one thing that bothers me is the fact "TIME = RISK" I may close this during Asia..we will see.

On the other hand GBP once again delivered all week long....that R38 level held and held and held, with nothing in the way of news to move it north...until this morning of course....will hold off on any more shorts until today's news is digestedbut I would not be surprized to see more downward on GBP in the days ahead....

RED flag USD @ 8:30 tomorrow morning 1.9 billion worth of options expiring on GU at the NY cut tomorrow @10 am.

UPDATE: Just saying these options couldn't have had anything to do with PA overnight on the London session. It's coincidental, nothing to see here folks move along. Looking to see if any reversal opportunity arises after 10 am.

I was fortunate Bubinka to reach pivot....thanks to a little news on USD that was less than stellar. Gave up a few more little scalps on GBP to finish the morning well in the Green... 🍷🍷

But overall, as Cryptosurf has pointed out, we are wise to take profit at the next level when a change in direction overall has occurred, Look at last weeks big momentum candle for NZP...and look at the last few days activity...there is a good chance NZP could move upward so best to bank what we can and move on....my take profits all hit at weekly pivot and that takes the decision away from me...and

Im happy with that... 😊

My favorite trade is Cable without a doubt....but if this is filled I will use stops, which I normally do not do....just because of the volatility in this beast and of course who knows what news event will come on the wire regarding Brexit or Johnson or whatever...one thing to note is how it is reacting at the yearly pivot...I know, I know..we do not trade yearly pivots, we trade weekly, but even weekly is up at R100 with momentum fading..ADR in red...and so on... ANYWAY, have to run so everyone have a good weekend...keep green!!

Hi Swede,

GBP is rallying wild, nobody can say if it will go beyond 1.25 or bounce back strongly.

100% unpredictable and almost impossible to trade.

Yes....the wisdom of entering small...I acknowledged the volatility was evident so a small stop took me out for a loss of about 60.00...can live with that any day, but GBP still my favorite for the very reason you point out...when your on the right side you can count on a big move...the past two weeks it has been more than very lucrative as it occillates around pivot areas...and it will do the same next week probably.....

EZ Late Week markup {image}

I wouldn't consider that a late week markup at R38. Price needs to be at the outer S/R levels. It was more like a midweek markdown if anything. However that midweek rally may be short lived.

See examples:

Oil To Hit $100? Half Of Saudi Oil Output Shut After Drone Strikes Cripple World's Largest Oil Processing Facility

From zerohedge.com

“ The WSJ is out with an update hinting at just how much the price of oil is set to soar when trading reopens late on Sunday after the Houthi drone attack on the largest Saudi oil processing plant: Saudi Arabia is shutting down about half of its oil output after apparently coordinated drone strikes hit Saudi production facilities, people familiar with the matter said, in what Yemen's Houthi rebels described as one of their largest-ever attacks inside the kingdom. The production shutdown amounts to a loss of about five million barrels a day, the people said, roughly 5% of the world's daily production of crude oil. The ... \(full story\)

DRONE STRIKES CAUSE AN INSTANT SHOCKWAVE AT THE OPENING OF TRADING ON THE USD/CAD !!

Perfect scenario of the lethality of holding open positions throughout any weekend or any non-trading day IF you have not MANAGED YOUR ACCOUNT PROPERLY.

A little can mean a lot !!

Many comments on this thread , by fantastic Forex traders , reaffirm this reality.

This may be premature, but staring to take a few feelers on Cad.....it has to react to Oil in the long run and if in fact Saudi's have to cut production according to news reports, oil could very well make it to $100.00....if it does the Canadian economy will explode....but in the short term oil up 7.00 overnight and rising...we shall see ?

Hi Guys I sincerely apologize for MIA from here. I had and have serious personal issues that I am dealing with possible donor an organ etc. My account is well and healthy although had to cut some losses due to trade wars. Losses are necessary when its the right thing to do to preserve capital. Hopefully I would be posting in near future. I am trying to change my work schedule so I can trade NY open Mon-Fr. Anyway good luck to you all. Regards

Glad to hear from you Davit. Good luck too on your personal issues, hope you will be able to resolve them soon.

Don't worry the markets always gonna be there for you. 😊

Good luck on your work too! 😊

Yesterday I took a day off from the office to spend a beautiful day on Ligurian riviera. 😊

This time I'm satisfied of the job done by my trade manager that closed my AU short on trailing stop.

It can drop more, but close to WS61 is a good spot.

Oil has not rallied like everyone thought (fake news ha ha) A friend of our family is in Riyadh as we speak pitching an invention to the oil industry there.....they think they will be able to rebuild the damage within just a few weeks to get back to production levels....and as I look at oil stalling in the 60.00 area that may be known already...in other words as traders we have to react to reality, not our wish or our dream....

So I am going to close my Cad trade with a nice profit because it is at weekly pivot, it is at a strong support/resistance zone, adr is in the red so now it the time for me anyway...going to keep it on my watch list though.....happy trading all

Very good lesson here.....just 2 days ago Oil was heading for $$100.00 All The News Feeds said so...lol lol 😊Saudi Oilfield Bombed and severely damaged leading to at least a 50% reduction in production.... Funny how it only rallied about $8.00 and then very little movement, in fact a small pullback.....shows you how the retail trader is at such a disadvantage because we are not in the know...we are caught in the reactions.... So when trading what you see instead of trading what you think, you attain to a level of strength instead of weakness.....this just came out...

Saudi energy minister: Oil supply is fully back online

SEPTEMBER 18, 2019 8:05 AM AEST

SOURCE: FXSTREET

While delivering his remarks on the situation in Saudi Arabia's oil industry following the drone and missile attacks, the Saudi energy minister noted that the kingdom's oil supply was fully back online and added that methane and gas production was expected to return to normal at end of the month.

"In the past two days, we have resumed more than half oil output," the minister noted. "Will keep full oil supply to our customers this month."

With the initial market reaction, the barrel of West Texas Intermediate extended its slide and was last seen trading at $59.15, losing 4.3% on the day.

First I would like to say how good it is to see you back Davit....I hope all will go well regarding your latest challenges. Cable has been my favorite instrument for the past 3 weeks, paying handsomely. No different over the weekend....with a huge bond expiry on Friday, and less than good news for the Brexit scenario, it seems it rallies to the nearest pivot point and then pulls back 50-100 pips every single time. So it is a matter of adjusting to shorter term trades and really paying attention to those areas. We had some nice low hanging fruit...

After late week markup for UJ, now at mid-week we could say that swing at WR38 has failed, it seems to be ready for shorts. 😊

The big BUT before taking position is FOMC later today, Powell speech and BOJ tomorrow.

Federal Reserve expected to cut interest rates on Wednesday

From cbsnews.com

“The Federal Reserve is expected Wednesday to trim its benchmark interest rate for the second time this year, offering the U.S. economy a spoonful of medicine amid signs it's catching cold. When the central bank in July lowered rates for the first time since the 2008 financial crisis, Fed Chairman Jerome Powell cited global trade tensions and slowing growth overseas. But he also described the 0.25 percentage point cut in the federal funds rate, to a range of 2% to 2.25%, as more of an adjustment in policy rather than the start of a longer-term shift toward easier money. Since then, the U.S. manufacturing sector has ... \(full story\)

I'm exhausted but very pleased with the day....I will not be posting for a few days and I hope others will...but I just had to make one point that could turn ones trading from so so, to very profitable and that is" Know Your Currency. Story telling time with a point.

About 12 years ago me and a trader from Wisconsin traded together nearly every day on Ivocalize. He was a farmer and excavation contractor, I was a machinery distributor so we got along very fine. He was a very very aggressive trader, one day alone he grossed 6 figures and I watched in awe. In the middle he had a margin call that needed to be satisfied, he cleared it and at the end of the day all he could say is "I think I am going to have a tax problem this year".

We kind of lost touch after my wife became very ill, and eventually I sold my contracts and had to pick up my life once again, this time alone. But my friend taught me something about knowing your currency that has always stuck with me. He would trade only GBPJPY, GBPUSD and EURO and he watched and analyzed every move they made during the day. He liked moving averages, pivots, levels, and, yes, Stochastic, but never set in the way all of us were taught, he had special settings and he still uses them today.

For example today's GBP.....You saw I was short many times during the past few weeks, cashing out when I had nice profit, no different today after the reaction to the Feds.....but one thing GBP does over and over, just before a big move a nasty spike will occur, taking out tons of stops and new entries. I had just closed both my Euro and Gbp positions and I was happy with the results.....but then the spike (see the highlighted candle)...and where did it come to a abrupt halt??? Yep...under the R38 and I hammered it with a shotgun blast of small entries with a tight mental stop....if it went against me to the tune of 300.00 I would close and walk away....but did it? Nope...So, I dedicate this trade to my old friend here in FF...Digger...thanks dig!!!

There are those who say pivots are just a line ...nothing more....well answer this then "why the reverse in direction over and over and over occur??" GBP has been one of the easiest currencies to trade of late for this very reason...no different last night...have a good look at where it reversed direction...yes, right at R61...oh and incidentally this is some of that low hanging fruit Cryotosurf has alerted us to. He did us a huge favor by alerting us to this market structure.

FYI, there's a cool little utility made by mladen that gives you a bit more screen real estate.

Swede and Bubincka , I am in this trade with you as well. I was quite surprised as the NZD strengthened on Friday as well. Being said , my collection of data and the fact that the US 10 Year Treasury rebounded slightly on Friday , bodes well for a very productive week with regard to this pair. Typically , I only trade the USD/CAD. I am actually looking forward to this week. Regards , GreenEarth

I just posted the chart but not in it until I see a reversal candle or price action around this level that would indicate a base....there may still be a ton of downside....cheers

FXStreet seems to be the fastest for me but I also use investing.com. FXStreet news has a auto reload feature that you don't have to keep hitting refresh to see the latest news updates.

I also use Interactive Brokers as well. They have alot of good analysis and stock reports on their platform. I use them for stocks and options Hope that helps

And because of the COT report I kept a few runners on GBP which gave up a couple hundred dollars...still have one on but may close soon...anyway the point is we don't always get home runs....but think of this...250.00 X5 trading days = 1250.00 X 4 weeks = 5000.00 X12= $60,000.00. As simplistic a it may seem to everyone off, you we often forget to realize how small numbers can be so large when you think in yearly terms.

That thinking comes from my few years in the restaurant business....if food costs were too high, if paper supplies were wasted, if rent and utilities get out of hand and labor costs spike because as an owner you needed some rest, you would find at the end of a stressful month, with good sales, there still wasn't enough money left over to pay yourself.....small numbers need to be controlled and appreciated for what they can become.

Ingvar's Monday Rant....lol..... Hope your all doing ok...I would be nice to see some posts on trades taken, or closed, or whatever to keep this thread alive....

One thing to keep in mind is we are pivot traders...weekly pivots....of course good news could bring Kiwi out of this slump, but until Red news is out and traders react, anything is possible.

And if we have a clear failure at Weekly Pivot, im going to trade that every time...but in the Direction Of The Overall Trend....and that's not hard to see.. So for new ones trading this method keep all that in mind...I know many of you are long and had a pretty nice run overnight, but have a clear look at where things stopped...and some really nice dollars banked...and I think a few more to come...$$$$$

Romanov102 , the video is a good video

Many experienced traders do not know that THE BIG BANKS RECEIVE THE NFP NUMBERS , 24 HOURS BEFORE THE OFFICIAL RELEASE TIME !!!

The video has many great points.

All successful Forex traders , have a single fundamental "engraved" in their brains.
ACCOUNT MANAGEMENT

"ANYTHING CAN HAPPEN IN FOREX" , how many times have we all heard this , but , IT IS TRUE !!

MARK DOUGLAS has the best trading video's available , bar none.

I am forever grateful that DAVIT put me on to those video's. WE ALL HAVE TO BE IN TOTAL CONTROL OF OUR EMOTIONS , 100% OF THE TIME , PERIOD.

Thank you for the video Romanov102.

Price Action & Pivot Point Trading=Success Davit's system hasn't failed me yet , and , I don't believe it will provided the RULES are consistently followed.

Kindest Regards,

{quote} Heavily long is sometimes when the BIG BANKS like to shit on the retail traders and take their money. Interesting video on this from Patrick in Vegas. <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Lvq0t0eQOG4&t=1400s>

Nick, Kiwi is the perfect example of the strong manipulation by those who have the power to move the currency. Everyone was thinking long and for those who got in early it paid off, even though most retail traders had their trailing stop hit on the original spike down, and then when it reversed all the shorts, who were so sure it was heading south got stopped on their positions as it rocketed up....and get this....THE NEWS WAS CRAP...it was nothing to move this market north.....knowing how these manipulations usually work I shorted the crap out of this thing as the 4hr chart closed....and sure enough it dropped like a rock...haaaaaa 🤔🤔.....new set of tires for the mini van coming up.....they say winter is on the way here in Alberta
